A World of Charming Characters and Captivating Stories

The Lessons 11-20 US Version introduce a delightful cast of characters who accompany young learners on their reading journey. From the mischievous monkey, Max, to the inquisitive hippo, Harry, each character brings a unique personality and set of experiences to the stories.

The stories themselves are captivating and relatable, weaving themes of friendship, adventure, and exploration. Children will find themselves immersed in the adventures of their favorite characters, eager to discover what happens next.

Phonics and Sight Words: Building a Strong Foundation

At the core of Lessons 11-20 US Version lies a systematic approach to phonics instruction. Children learn to identify and manipulate individual sounds, blending them together to form words. This foundational skill paves the way for proficient decoding and spelling.

In addition to phonics, the lessons introduce and reinforce high-frequency sight words. These common words, such as "the," "and," and "of," appear frequently in text and cannot be easily sounded out. By recognizing sight words instantly, children can focus on understanding the meaning of the text rather than struggling to decode every word.

Comprehension: Digging Deeper into Meaning

Comprehension skills take center stage in Lessons 11-20 US Version. Children are encouraged to think critically about the stories they read, answer questions, and make inferences. They learn to identify the main idea, supporting details, and character traits.
